The IT department has developed an experimental call-system that allows calls to be made to any telephone extension numbers through Skype. This service has no associated costs, making the calls completely free if done through a Wi-fi connection. This new system will also prove especially helpful to teachers and researchers abroad who wish to communicate with UCO.

To use the associated system follow these simple steps:

1. Add uco_centralita as a contact in Skype.
2. Call uco_centralita through Skype
3. A message will be reproduced prompting you to dial the extension number you wish to talk to. Using the Skype keyboard, dial the 4 digit extension number (Or the 9 digit extension number of the call center)
4. The system will then put you through
5. Once your call has been picked up, you will be able to speak normally like an usual phone call.
